

We are delighted to announce that Aylsham High School has its own Facebook page.

Aylsham High School—Information For Parents

This is an additional resource for parents to access information about the daily life of students and opportunities available for them and their families.

We have a continually growing Twitter community amongst Aylsham High School staff which is a rich source of information for parents and students. You do not have to be on Twitter to follow, just Google the Twitter addresses provided in our Twitter address book. Please find below an example of some of the Twitter accounts in which you might be interested.
